NEWS BRIEFS

Senate Votes Meat Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed Tuesday a bill strongly opposed by the Johnson administration—to put quotas on imports of beef, veal and mutton.

The vote was 72-15.

The measure goes back to the House where administration forces hope it can be killed. The livestock industry has mounted a big campaign in its behalf however.

Pennsylvania's two senators, Democrat Joseph S. Clark and Republican Hugh Scott, voted Tuesday against the bill.

Georgia Includes Negro Delegates

ATANTA (AP) — Gov. Carl E. Sanders included Negroes on Georgia's delegation to the Democratic National Convention Tuesday for the first time in modern history.

He announced the 64 delegates and 51 of the 53 alternates to the party session opening Aug. 24 at Atlantic City. There were two Negro delegates and two alternates.

The delegates are State Sen. Leroy Johnson, the first of his race to win election to the state legislature in a half century, and attorney A. T. Walden. Both live in Atlanta.

Day's Age Cited In Fish Firing

HARRISBURG (AP) — A spokesman for the State Fish Commission said Tuesday that Albert M. Day's age had something to do with his removal as executive director.

The commission met for biennial reorganization Monday and failed to retain Day in the $15,000-a-year post. Day is 67, and had held the post since 1960.

Day blamed his ouster on a long standing feud among commission members and "staff jealousies." He said two factions within the commission have been squabbling for several years, with one of the factions behind Raymond M. Williams.

Barry Anxious For TV Debates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said Tuesday he wants to meet President Johnson in televised debates during their campaign for the White House.

Rep. Jack Westland R-Wash., said the Republican presidential nominee issued his challenge to the President during a closed-door meeting with more than 70 GOP members of the House.

Westland quoted Goldwater as saying he is "ready, wiling and able" to meet Johnson in television debates.

Boxer Murdered For Husband

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Francis Phelan, 26-year-old muscular ex-boxer, testifed Tuesday that he shot to death a man and a woman in Dante's Restaurant June 19 at the request of the woman's husband.

Mrs. Judith Lopinson, 25, and Joseph Malito, 52, a partner in the center city establishment, were shot to death in the basement office of the restaurant.

Phelan said he was hired to commit the slayings by Jack Lopinson, 27-year-old husband of Judith and Malito's partner. He said he also was asked by Lopinson to kill three other persons.

Nikita-Erhard Meeting Hinted

BONN, West Germany (AP) A meeting between Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard in Bonn this winter seemed virtually set Tuesday after a visit by Alexei Adzhubei, editor in chief of Izvestia, the Communist party paper, and Khrushchev's son-in-law.

Market Retreats On Light Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated again Tuesday but amid increasing signs of resistance and on the lightest trading since early June.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been down as much as 4.40, closed with a net loss of 3.70 at 837.35.

The lifting of selling pressure was highlighted by the drop in volume to 3.89 million shares from 4.09 million Monday, the smallest total since June 12 when 3.84 million shares changed hands.

Musmanno To Fight Blatt Court Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"Concession is about as remote from my mind as a trip to the moon with Khrushcheve in the same space capsule," Justice Michael A. Musmanno said Tuesday in his first public comment on his lengthy fight with Genevieve Blatt for the Democratic party's nomination as U. S. Senator.

Musmanno told a news conference he would appeal Monday's decision by the state Supreme Court that ruled out some 6,000 wrong-line votes in the April primary.

Clinched Nomination

The court decision apparently clinched the nomination for Miss Blatt, the state secretary of internal affairs. She has a lead of 500 votes statewide, but, in the wrong-line votes, Musmanno would come out with a margin of 1,200—or enough to clinch the nomiation—if they are counted officially.

Musmanno had not planned to speak at Tuesday's news conference, only sitting quietly by while his chief counsel, Abraham Freedman, read a prevared statement and answered questions.

Freedman, reading the statement with Mussmanno at his side, said a petition would be filed with the state Supreme Court asking reconsideration or reargument, or both, of the case.

At that point, a newsman asked the justice if this meant he was not conceding to Miss Blatt.

Not Quitting

Quick as wink, the justice came back with his remark that "concession is about as remote from my mind."

He prefaced it by saying, "Well, I think after all that has been said here this afternoon that it would be perfectly clear that concession is about as remote from my mind....."

Earlier, Freedman had described Musmanno as "terribly disappointed, greatly shocked" over the wrong-line decision. He said Musmanno couldn't understand the 3-2 decision (neither Musmanno nor Justice Herbert B. Cohen took part). Freedman said the justice had described the decision as an amazing thing.

The attorney said the decision inviolates a provision of the state constitution which governs the election of U. S. Senators.

Voter Traps

Freedman said that although the voting machines "as set up were traps for unsuspecting voters," the intention of those voters was unmistakably clear to vote for the respective candidates below and adjacent to whose name were the levers used."

Freedman said the 1937 act of Pennsylvania provides that the lever must be adjacent to the candidates name, and may be above or below.

"It is evident therefore," said Freedman, "that these votes were cast in full accord with the Pennsylvania statute."

Miss Blatt and Musmanno have been involved in a legal fight for the nomination since the April primary. She leads the judge by 513 votes. A third candidate in the race never was in the running.

Scott Opponent

The winner, and on the basis of the Supreme Court decision, it appears to be Miss Blatt, opposes incumbent Sen. Hugh Scott Republican, in the November election.

Miss Blatt, informed of the court decision Monday, said, 'I am anxious to get on with the campaign."

Freedman said the judges' lawyers are awaiting the opinion before deciding how to proceed. He said, however, he and Musmanno can't imagine what the court's reasoning was, what they hung their hat on.

Freedman apparently has a choice of appealing to the U.S. Supreme Court, the U.S. District Court, or asking the state Supreme Court for a review.

Federal Question

The attorney said he had no doubt there was a federal question involved.

"We could go into the U.S. Supreme Court immediately if we wanted to. This is an issue far in excess of a local one.

Dr. King, Wagner Discuss U. S. Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. discussed Tuesday possible increased federal help in city programs as a means of solving racial strife and rioting.

The meeting between the mayor and King, leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and advocate of nonviolence, was their second in less than 24 hours.

A number of city officials and civil rights leaders attended the session in Gracie Mansion, the mayor's official residence.

Leslie Slote, acting executive assistant to the mayor, told newsmen the meeting was "cordial and fruitful."

He said aides of the mayor held telephone conversations with aides of President Johnson and various federal officials in a "joint effort by all participants to increase federal participation" in various programs.

Slote said mobilization for youth and job-training programs for youth were among the programs discussed.

Those at the conference included Bayard Rustin, leader of last year's civil rights march on Washington; Cleveland Robinson, a member of the city's Commission on Human Rights; the Rev. Bernard Lee, an aide to King; David Livingston, a union leader active in the civil rights movement; City Council President Paul R. Screvane, and Julius C. C. Edelstein, an executive aide to the mayor.

King flew here from Atlanta on Monday night and conferred with Wagner for almost four hours until 2 a.m. The second session began in midafternoon.

Members of the Unity Council of Harlem organizations, representing more than 50 groups, expressed resentment that King had not conferred with them prior to seeing Wagner.

King commented that he had talked with some Harlem leaders — including officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Urban League and Harlem Youth Opportunities Unlimited — before meeting Wagner.

Rochester Lifts Riot Curfew

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Swift, harsh retribution Tuesday night was promised any persons who renew racial rioting by officials who lifted a dusk-to-dawn curfew in a city bloodied and battered by last weekend's violence.

Tension still hung heavy, although three days of Negro rioting and pillaging ended early Monday, as Mayor Frank Lamb announced that "we are determined. . .that law and order shall prevail in Rochester.

"Any violations will be dealt with, and dealt with severely, harshly and conclusively."

He added that law enforcement men, who have used firearms sparingly during the rioting, "have been well-trained in their use and have been instructed to use them if the situation demands it."

Despite the apparent end to wholesale violence, the apprehension that has gripped the city since Friday night remained. Officials privately expressed fear that rioting might flare anew during the coming weekend when factories close and thousands of workers take their normal days off.

4 Americans Killed In Viet Nam War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Striking twice, the Communist Viet Cong killed four American servicemen Tuesday in a swift sequel to the U. S. government's decision to increase its military commitments in South Viet Nam.

Even as the roll of American combat dead rose to 163, Vietnamese pressure persisted for expansion of the war to Communist North Viet Nam, a move that Washington considers at least untimely.

Counterattack

Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the premier, hinted his regime would feel free to strike on its own if it decided to stage what he called such "a counterattack, a defensive action," and the United States refused to give its support.

Saigon University students called for a march on the North in a riotous anti-French demonstration, heir second in eight days. Police gave way and watched as a screaming band pulled down and dragged away a huge bronze monument to France's war dead.

260 U.S. Dead

The loss of the four Americans increased to 260 the number of U. S. deaths from all causes in Viet Nam since the United States began a massive buildup of its support and advisory forces in December 1961.

Two U. S. Army officers and an Air Force man were blasted to death by a mine detonated under their jeep as they drove in a convoy of five vehicles 21 miles south of Saigon.

U.S. Major Shot

Ten miles northwest of this city, 20 black-uniformed Communist riflemen halted and shot a U. S. Army major. The killing occurred between a government military post and the village assembly hall in Tan Phu Trung.

Killed with the major was one of two Vietnamese soldiers riding back from Saigon with him to his post as a sector supervisor in Hau Nghia province. The other was captured. Though Tan Phu Trung is a Roman Catholic community considered solidly in government hands, nobody tried to intervene.

Pocono Heat Wave To Lift By Thursday

STROUDSBURG — The The scorched Poconos were like the tropics yesterday as the mercury hit 90 degrees for the eighth time in 12 days.

Rainfall for the month is below the average 2.80 inches, he said. June had only five inches. The third year of drought has yet to affect local water supplies.

More Than Ample

Stroudsburg water authority reports that flow from the borough's big spring and subsidiary line to Brodheads Creek is more than ample to meet consumer demands. East Stroudsburg water supply is also ample.

However, housewives concerned over flowers, and husbands equally worried about lawns and gardens have been restricted in water use to the hours between 6 and 9 p.m. for several weeks. Despite recent rains, sprinklers are on full force every night as lawns turn brown and flowers fade.

RANGER 7 IS EN ROUTE—Powerful Atlas-Agena rocket, with camera-laden Ranger 7 spacecraft, pushes skyward at start of trip to the moon. In the final minutes the Ranger's television cameras are to transmit more than 4,000 closeup pictures of the moon back to earth. Then the spacecraft will crash land on the moon's surface. (AP Wirephoto)

Closeup Photos Planned Friday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The Ranger 7 spacecraft benefitting from near-perfect rocket marksmanship, raced Tuesday night on a collision course with the moon.

The lunar photographic expedition had two major goals before its intended crash-landing on the moon at 8:45 a.m. (EST) Friday morning:

1. Transmit to earth more than 4,000 closeup pictures of areas where American astronauts may explore five years from now.

2. End six years of frustration during which the United States has tried and failed with 12 moon shots.

Successful Takeoff

The camera-laden spacecraft blazed into the sky from Cape Kennedy at 11:50 a.m. (EST) and successfully cleared all early hurdles on its planned 69-hour, 228,522 mile space voyage.

At 7 p.m., the insect-shaped vehicle was 52,582 miles from earth, traveling 6,015 miles an hour.

All systems aboard the moon-bound craft were working well.

So accurate was the Atlas-Agena booster rocket that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced seven hours after launching that on its present path, Ranger 7 would sweep around the leading, or left, edge and impact on the dark side of the moon that always is hidden from earth's view.

But scientists want to hit the visible, lighted, side for photographic purposes and because this is the face on which U.S. spacemen are to tread late in this decade.

Midcourse Change

So they planned to jockey Ranger 7 toward the intended target on the front side during a crucial midcourse maneuver scheduled about 3:30 a.m. Wednesday. At that time a radio signal will be sent from the ground to ignite a small steering motor aboard the craft.

The motor was capable of correcting trajectory moon-miss errors of up to 6,200 miles in any direction from the target. Officials said only a minor adjustment was needed to put Ranger 7 on the proper route.

The accuracy of the Atlas-Agena was the most perfect of any U.S. moon rocket.

Scientists at the flight control center at Goldstone, Calif., were to calculate precisely how much of an adjustment is needed and send the proper firing signal when the mooncraft is about 115,000 miles from earth, halfway to its target.

The first half of the journey is completed much faster than the second half because the probe's speed gradually decreases as it stabs deeper into space.

Space Glide

If nothing goes wrong, Ranger 7 will approach the moon Friday morning and, in a furious 13-minute, 40-second session, each of its six television cameras will snap hundreds of pictures before the payload crashes on the moon at a speed of more than 5,000 miles an hour.

Military Pay Increases For 2.7 Million Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the 2.7 million men and women in military uniform were virtually assured of a Sept. 1 pay raise when the House Armed Services Committee approved it unanimously Tuesday.

Committee Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., made plans to bring the pay raise bill to the House floor next week under a procedure that would allow no amendments. Since the measure is identical to one passed by the Senate earlier this month, House passage would send it directly to President Johnson, who urged the pay boost.

2 Year Limit

There were vigorous protests in the House committee that 844,000 draftees and enlistees with less than two years service will not be included in the pay raise. An effort to write them in was beaten 21 to 9.

The career members of the military forces would get a 2.5 per cent raise, with an 8.5 per cent increase going to 44,601 lower ranking commissioned and warrant officers with less than two years service.

This would range from $49.30 more monthly for top four-star generals and admirals down to $3 for privates and apprentice seamen. It would be effective on the first day of the next month after the President signs the bill and would go to members of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard, Public Health Service and the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Included in the raise are reservists and national guardsmen, but retirement pay for the military is not affected.

Costs $207 Million

The raise, which would cost $207 million a year, would be the second pay hike within a year for the military forces. Congress voted a $1.2 billion boost last year and it went into effect on Oct. 1.

Faubus Swamps Primary Foes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Democratic Gov. Orval E. Faubus easily won an expected sixth term nomination in Tuesday's Democratic primary and turned his sights on a November showdown with Republican Winthrop Rockefeller.

The general election battle will pit the son of an Ozark Mountain farmer against the grandson of John D. Rockefeller, whose name became a synonym for wealth.

Faubus polled more than 70 per cent of the primary vote against three opponents who were political unknowns before they filed for governor.

With 897 of 2,363 precincts reported, The Associated Press count showed: Faubus 61,028, Odell Dorsey 14,342, Joe Hubbard 7,987 and R. D. Burrow 3,022.

Voting was generally light, except in areas with spirited local races. Early returns indicated that less than half of the 633,000 eligible electors would vote.

Dull Campaign

The primary climaxed one of the dullest campaigns in Arkansas history.

Rep. E. C. Gathings was an easy victor over Mrs. Florence Clay, a Negro funeral home owner, in the 1st Congressional District, but Rep. Oren Harris was having a battle with Dean Murphy, a politically inexperienced truck stop operator in the 4th District.

With 94 of 328 precincts reports, Gathings had 9,778 votes to Mrs. Clay's 982.

Returns from 301 of 810 precincts in the 28-county 4th District gave Harris 18,217 to 13,357 for Murphy.

13 Indicted For 'Biggest' P. O. Thefts

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury in Brooklyn indicted 13 men Tuesday on charges of taking part in the most lucrative post office burglary operation in the nation's history.

Authorities said the gang stole more than $700,000 worth of stamps and money orders from eight New Jersey postoffices during the first five months of this year.

Federal investigators said the gang was broken into burglary specialists and others who converted the stamps and money orders into cash.

Among those indicted was a New York coin and stamp dealer who, authorities said, helped convert the stamps into cash.

Also indicted was Nicholas Guzzo, a former Union City, N.J., policeman in whose home last June 9 police said they found a cache of arms and ammunition, burglar tools and several police uniforms. He was held in lieu of $30,000 bond.

Postal authorities began an investigation to determine if the uniforms might have been those used in a $1.5 million postal truck holdup two years ago near Plymouth, Mass.

9 Frenchmen Still Alive In Cave-In

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (AP)—Rescue workers established contact Tuesday night with a group of entombed miners and learned that at least nine of the 14 trapped men were alive and well.

The miners had been trapped about 36 hours within a limestone quarry mine beneath Mount Rivel in eastern France near the Swiss frontier.

Drillers first sank a thin pipe into the closed off underground gallery, and exchanged signals with the miners by knocking on the pipe. Working in a drenching downpour, rescuers then pushed through a larger pipe, and managed to lower a microphone to the men.

The trapped men called out nine names, and said five of their companions were missing, somewhere else in the vast labyrinth of tunnels and caverns. They said they feared three of the missing men were caught by falling rock and possibly perished.

Mississippi Demos Delay Endorsement

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Mississippi Democratic party voted Tuesday to delay deciding what candidate it will support in the November presidential race.

The state party convention unanimously accepted the recommendation of Gov. Paul Johnson to wait until the Democratic National Convention names a candidate and platform before making the decision.

Johnson said if the state convention would delay a decision on presidential electors until Sept. 9, "I shall be the first to say 'yea' to the majority of this great convention at that time."

FBI Nabs 5 For Interstate Auto Thefts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The FBI announced Tuesday the arrest of five men in what it described as an interstate auto theft ring. Three were arrested in Pennsylvania, one in New Jersey and one Oakland, Calif.

Curtis O. Lynum, agent in charge of the San Francisco FBI bureau, said James J. Vernacchio, 33, operator of the Delco Automatic Transmission Co. of Oakland, and former Cherry Hill, N. J. dealer, was held in the Oakland jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Lynum said Vernacchio was taken into custody Monday at about the same time eastern police arrested Sylvester Kuchinskas at Kingston, Pa. and Joseph J. Bruno at Luzerne, Pa., both used car dealers; David Kasper of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., an auto dealer, and Stanley Evans of Nutley, N.J.

Vernacchio was accused of transporting in interstate commerce two stolen 1964 cars from Wilkes-Barre to Nutley and Newark, N.J.

Lynum said the operations were investigated by New Jersey and Pennsylvania state police, Philadelphia city police, Oakland police, the National Auto Theft Bureau, and the FBI.

Survivor Can't Explain Air Crash

EAST STROUDSBURG—Carl Roos, 58, a survivor of Monday night's plane crash near Mt. Pocono which took one life, told The Daily Record in a hospital interview last night that he did not know what had caused the crash.

Francis J. Panzarello, about 44, of 234 E. Northampton St., Wilkes-Barre, was pinned in the crash and burned to death. He was co-owner with Roos of the single-engined Navion which went down in a rhododendron bog, off Rt. 611 after taking off from Mt. Pocono Airport.

Still listed in critical condition at Monroe County General Hospital with burns over 70 per cent of her body is Mary Elizabeth (Molly) Gallagher, 18, daughter of the pilot of the ill-fated craft. A waitress at Mo-Nom-O-Nock Inn in Mountainhome, she had clothes burned when the resort caught fire recently.

Roos, 58, of 611 Wyoming Ave., Wyoming, was in fair condition with extensive burns. Pilot James J. Gallagher Jr. of 76 Yates St., Forty Fort, was in the same condition, but declined to talk to a reporter.

No Power Loss

Roos said from his hospital bed that the engine had showed no power loss. "I was enjoying the flight when it happened," he said. "We went across the wires (north of Rt. 611) and the trees seemed to come up and get us. I started to shout, but didn't have time."

Gallagher a World War II flying instructor, was sitting in the pilot's seat in the left front with Panzarello to his right, Roos reported. "Molly sat in the right rear, and I sat on the left beside her," he said.

Roos, who said he had more than 2,000 hours of flying experience, walked part way out to Rt. 611 after the crash, and had to be helped the remaining distance through the thick brush.

CAB Investigating

Arnold Holstine, Civil Aeronautics Board investigator, was at the scene yesterday, directing a combined investigation into the cause of the crash.

Also on hand were Trooper Nicholas Pauley, aviation investigator for the State Police, and John Doster and Ray Whitehead of the Federal Aviation Agency.

"We are in the process of collecting information about the accident," Holstine said. "Any release on probable cause will come from our Washington office," he added.

Vincent Wreski, airport assistant, was at the airport when the crash occurred. According to a report Wreski filed with investigators, the plane went down at 9:46 p.m. There was no wind, a slight ground haze and unlimited ceiling at the time, he said.

Fast Taxi

Wreski reported that the pilot started his engine and taxied "rather fast" to runway five where he warmed up the engine for about two minutes. The pilot then gave the plane the throttle, and taxied down some 2,500 feet of runway before he became airborne, Wreski continued.

He explained that was normal take-off distance for a small plane. At the end of the runway, he said, the craft was "not over 50 feet" high, and appeared to lose altitude.

The plane then veered to the right, and Wreski lost sight of it in the trees.

He said he heard the crash, but was unable to see flames. Wreski immediately called state police, Mt. Pocono Fire Co., Dr. E. O. Headrick, and airport flight service.

R. LeRoy Dengler, chairman of the airport authority, praised Wreski highly last night for his quick action following the disaster.

Quick Action

"Wreski did a wonderful thing last night. I personally intend to commend him," Dengler said. It took Wreski only a few seconds to reach rescue workers, and they were on the scene in "not more than five or six minutes," Dengler added.

"He isn't paid to be up there. But he goes every night before he goes to bed," Dengler said of the airport consultant.

Panzarello's body was removed to the Grose Funeral Home in Mt. Pocono after Mt. Pocono and Coltaugh Twp. firefighters extinguished the burning plane with powder, foam and CO 2.

Hospital Alert

Charles Swisher, assistant superintendent at the hospital, said yesterday that "about all the hospital surgical staff was on hand" when the crash victims were brought in.

Plane Crashes At Scranton

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — A twin engine plane crashed upon landing Monday night at Scranton Municipal Airport at nearby Schultzville, but the pilot escaped uninjured, airport officials reported.

Airport manager Harold D. Swank said the pilot, Bernard Carver, of Boston, Mass., did not have his landing gear down and made a forced landing on the plane's belly.

Swank said the plane, an Air Commander, was only slightly damaged and would be able to be flown out Tuesday.

Tate Cheers Blatt Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mayor James H. J. Tate sent this congratulatory telegram Tuesday to Genevieve Blatt in Harrisburg:

"My warmest congratulations on your victory in the primary election. Your addition to the ticket for the vigorous campaign ahead is most welcome. I cannot think of a stronger team than one headed by Johnson and Blatt to defeat the Republican forces of reaction in November. You have my complete support."

Negro Teacher Wins School Job

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Jane S. McPherson, a Negro school teacher, has won a two-year fight to get a job in the Connellsville Joint School System.

The Joint School Board voted unanimously Monday night to hire Mrs. McPherson and set her salary at $5,000 a year. The supervising principal will assign her specific duties.

Mrs. McPherson first sought a full-time job with the jointure in 1962 after teaching part-time in the city school system. After being rejected she appealed to the State Human Relations Commission on grounds she was discriminated against because of her race.

5 Pay Fine For Lottery

HARRISBURG (AP)—A total of $750 in fines was paid Monday by five men who pleaded guilty to operating a lottery in the State Farm Show Building during a labor rally.

Each of the men was fined $150 and given months' probation at a hearing before Judge R. Dixon Herman in Dauphin County Court.

Sentenced were David E. Moore of Harrisburg; James J. Slabonik, Anthony A. Castriota and Albert S. Gray, all of Steelton, and Ellsworth K. Huggins, Bressler.

The five were arrested by state police in the Farm Show Building March 19. Some 10,000 members of labor unions were attending a rally against the Scranton administration's unemployment compensation bill. The bill, however, was enacted into law by the state legislature.

Right To Work Urged On Demos

HARRIBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Democratic party was asked Monday to support in principle the policy of allowing each state to decide whether or not to enact "right to work" laws.

"The Taft-Hartley Act authorizes the states to deal with the issue of voluntary versus compulsory unionism," said James Scott II, presidento of Pennsylvanians for Right to Work, Inc., in a letter to Democratic State Chairman Otis B. Morse.

"We urge that Pennsylvania's representatives on the Democratic Platform Committee and delegates to the National Democratic Convention stand firmly for a plank in the party platform for protection . . ." of that authorization, Scott continued.

Scott said a right to work law bans compulsory union membership contracts and "would permit each individual worker to decide for himself whether or not to join a union."

Truax Sees Bill For Barry

HARRISBURG (AP)—Republican State Chairman Craig Truax says he expects Gov. Scranton to go "all-out" in his support of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater for the presidency.

Scranton is scheduled to return Aug. 3 from a two-week vacation in the Adirondack Mountains in New York State. The governor was Goldwater's leading opponent for the GOP presidential nomination.

On Basis Of National Study

Monroe Gets High Market Rating

(Special to the Record)

NEW YORK — On the basis of a national study of business activity, just released, Monroe County stands out as a solid, vigorous market, with a level of income and spending above that found in most communities.

Marked gains were made in its trading area during the past year as local families, with more money at their command, indulged in large-scale buying.

The facts are brought out in Sales Management"s new copyrighted "Survey of Buying Power," which presents comparable income and sales figures for every section of the country.

Top Previous Year

The strong consumer buying in Monroe County enabled retailers to top their previous year's records. Local stores closed the year with a sales volume of $60,963,000 an increase over the 1962 total of $54,553,000.

From the standpoint of population, this was more than should have been expected. With a local population equivalent to .0217 per cent of the national population, the local volume of business should have been approximately that proportion of the national.

Actually, however, it went beyond that amount, accounting for .0248 percent of the national.

The spending surge was felt, in varying degrees, in most parts of the country. It proved a boon to retailers generally, but benefited the automobile business more than any other.

The affluent public opened its purse strings wide, also, for other products. They bought more household appliances, more fancy foods, more books and magazines and did more traveling than ever before.

The answer is that, despite the many people who are still unemployed, the number who are holding down jobs has gone up and their earnings have increased.

The survey shows that net income locally, after payment of taxes, reached $78,236,000, a rise from the previous year's $77,201,000.

$6,160 Per Household

This boils down to an average of $6,160 per household, which is arrived at by dividing the overall income by the number of households.

Just how one locality compares with another in purchasing power and business volume is revealed through an "index of sales activity."

Monroe County's index is given as 114, or 14 percent above the national average.

Alexandrite, a semiprecious stone, was named after Czar Alexander II of Russia, on whose birthday it was first found in the Ural Mountains.

Former Resident Of Eastburg

WATERTOWN, Conn. — Miss Carrie A. Bush, 78, a former resident of East Stroudsburg, died Monday at Watertown Hospital.

Miss Bush was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bush of East Stroudsburg. She is survived by one niece.

A graduate of East Stroudsburg High School, she received a teaching degree at East Stroudsburg Normal School in 1903 — the first class that took a three - year course at the school.

After teaching in East Stroudsburg and New Jersey schools for three years, Miss Bush went to Watertown, where she taught mathematics and was a school principal for 12 years.

Department Store's Sales Better Than District Norm

STROUDSBURG — Sales at Wyckoff's Department Store, Stroudsburg, in the resort-centered Poconos, apparently failed to show a general decline of 4 per cent reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia for the district from May to June.

The bank said in a report yesterday that "although department store sales in the Third Federal Reserve District for the first half of 1964 are 8 per cent ahead of a like period in 1963, a seasonally adjusted decline of 4 per cent between May and June was experienced."

The report continued that despite the decline, June's index reached a new high of 118 per cent of the base, using the 1957-59 average.

An official at Wyckoff's said that "no store can pin-point a Federal Reserve trend." However, he continued, sales for June were "substantially increased, despite the fact that our anniversary sale this year was held in July rather than June."

Other department stores in the Pocono area would not comment, or referred questioners to their New York offices.

Harness Race Tax Income Up

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state's income from harness racing is running more than $230,000 ahead of last year, the state Revenue Department reported Tuesday.

The tax collection thus far in 1964 total $2,727,736, compared with $2,494,535 a year ago.

The current revenue was obtained from a completed 50-day meeting by the Liberty Bell Racing Association, 25 days of racing by the William Penn Racing Association at the Liberty Bell track, and 38 days of racing at the Meadows race track in Washington County.

The state collected $97,433 last week at Meadows, raising the total there to $569,289 better than $160,000 more than was netted over the same period in 1963.

Basin Plans Stricter Ground Water Rules

TRENTON — The Delaware River Basin Commission is scheduled to offer amendments to its comprehensive plan which will require stricter regulations covering the use and removal of underground water within the river's watershed.

The commission will hold a public hearing on the proposed amendments Aug. 26 at 2 p.m. in the Pennsylvania State Office Building in Philadelphia. The hearing will follow a regular meeting of the commission.

In addition to the underground water amendments, the commission will also submit to the public:

1. Copies of its proposed budget for the 1965-66 fiscal year.

2. A resolution to amend the comprehensive plan by incorporating a number of projects that have been approved under Section 3.8 of the four-state compact.

If approved by the commission, the resolution covering underground water will take effect immediately and will cover:

"The underground water - bearing formations of the basin, their waters, storage capacity, recharge areas and ability to convey water, shall be preserved and protected subject to the compact."

Requirements

The specific requirements — with respect to underground water — that are being proposed by the commission are:

— "Projects which withdraw underground water shall be planned and operated in such manner as will reasonably safeguard the present and future public interest in the affected water resource."

— "Except as may be otherwise determined to be in the public interest, planned withdrawls from the underground waters of the basin shall be limited to their safe yields."

— "No underground waters, or surface waters which are or may be the sources of replenishment thereof, shall be polluted in violation of water quality standards duly promulgated by the commission or by any of the signatory parties."

"The principal natural recharge areas through which the underground waters of the basin are replenished shall be protected from unreasonable interference with their recharge function."

— "The underground water resources of the basin shall be utilized, conserved, developed, managed and controlled in view of the needs of present and future generations, and of the resources available to them.

"To that end, the use, interference, impairment, penetration or artificial recharge of an aquifer or of any other underground water resource shall be subject to review and evaluation under the compact."

— "The underground waters of the basin shall be subject to the doctrine of equitable apportionment as provided by the compact."

— "The commission will exercise jurisdiction over underground waters in such manner as to supplement such regulatory authority of a signatory party as may be applicable to any project."

Also To Be Amended

Section 3.8 — which will also be amended following the public hearings — covers the general water resources of the basin.

Part of the section reads:

"No project having a substantial effect on the water resources of the basin shall hereafter be undertaken by any person, corporation or governmental authority unless it shall have first been submitted to and approved by the commission, subject to provisions of Sections 3.3 and 3.5.

"The commission shall approve a project whenever it finds and determines that such project would not substantially impair or conflict with the comprehensive plan and may modify and approve as modified, or may disapprove any such project whenever it finds and determines that the project would substantially impair or conflict with such plan.

"The commission shall provide by regulation for the procedure of submission, review, and consideration of projects, and for its determinations pursuant to this section.

"Any determination of the commission hereunder shall be subject to judicial review in any court of competent jurisdiction."

Short Cut Cuts Into Parked Cars

SAYLORSBURG — 'Private, No Thorofare, Customers Only" reads a sign on a 1956 station wagon parked in front of the Lake House in Saylorsburg.

Grayden Praetorius, pro*prietor of the hotel,* bar, and restaurant, said he was forced to block off his front parking lot with the car because vehicles were using the parking area as a short cut from old Rt. 115 to new Rt. 115.

Praetorius has had his car hit five times with damages of close to $500.

Many of his customers have had their cars hit also. "This is bad for business," he said.

State police questioned Praetorius about the sign. He told them he was only blocking off his own property "for the protection of his customers."

No driver has stopped yet to report hitting a car parked in the parking area, he exclaimed.

Praetorius said he is not blocking the area to annoy anyone, but due to the heavy traffic this time of year he feels "I owe it to my customers."

Paradise Adopts Building Law

SWIFTWATER — The supervisors of Paradise Township have enacted an ordinance governing all future building in the township and requiring a building permit before any construction is undertaken.

The suyervisors said the ordinance was necessary to improve fire protection and to protect the resort nature of the area.

The new ordinance requires that a work plan bbe submitted to the supervisors before any new building or renovation is undertaken. The plan must include the materials and equipment to be used while performing any future work.

The new law also requires that sewage disposal systems be installed in connection with any building and shall be approved by the supervisors and such systems must conform to the specifications of the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Housing Administration.

Moving Buildings Ruling

Under the ordinance, it will be against the law to move buildings in the township, if, in the opinion of the supervisors, such a move will detract from the resort nature of the township or would seriously increase the fire hazard of the surrounding buildings.

The minimum building permit fee will be $5 and will cover work up to $1,000. An additional $1 fee will be charged for each additional $1,000 of construction.

Persons found in violation of the ordinance will be fined $25. It will also cost $25 for any prohibited conditions that exist for each 10 days after the initial violation.

Paradise supervisors are Harold Heydt, George P. Koerner and Lawrence Paules. Carl C. Hamblin is township secretary.

Main Street Shade Trees

When the temperature climbs to 95 degrees on a summer day in Stroudsburg, Main Street sidewalks reflect sun like the sands of the Sahara and make this shopping center one of the hotest places on earth.

The most beautiful and efficient way to cool Stroudsburg's Main Street from 8th to 5th Street for summer shoppers and visitors and make it more attractive the year around would be the planting of more shade trees.

Cement, asphalt and automobile fumes do not create ideal conditions for growing trees on Main Street, but there are trees especially suited for this purpose.

The Stroudsburg Shade Tree Commission, led by Russell Harmon of Stroudsburg who has devoted many hours for many years to planting and maintaining trees in the borough, has done as much as it can do with its present $2,500 annual budget.

The commission planted a Ginko tree, a special shade tree, about 20 years ago in front of what is now Biggs American Restaurant at 746 Main St. (See picture above). It is flourishing in spite of the hazards to living trees on Main Street, where other types of trees have died over the years.

Other communities have spent the necessary money on this vital investment for the good of merchants, shoppers, tourists as well as for residents and taxpayers.

We would like to see the Shade Tree Commission study the project, the types of suitable trees, the number needed to shade Main Street, the cost of the trees and the cost of installation and maintenance.

The commission could decide what is feasible and ask the borough council for needed funds.

A long range program would allow the planting of a few trees each year.

If the cost is not excessive, it might be accomplished in a shorter period of time.

The Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn., individual merchants and property owners, may be needed to help in the planting and maintenance of the trees. Support of necessary budget increases would be needed from the Stroudsburg borough council.

Trees can survive on Main Street. Other communities and bigger cities have proved that. They would make Main Street a much nicer shopping, walking and talking area in summer and winter.

Robert S. Allen — Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — With the Democratic convention less than a month off, the President has personally started taking soundings on his possible running mate.

This highly significant first-hand polling is being done in two ways—in carefully unannounced White House talks, and in telephone calls to trusted party and other leaders in key states and voting areas throughout the country, including the South.

In discussing this fateful question with selected White House callers, the President's usual procedure is as follows:

He explains he would like to get the visitor's frank private opinion of a vice presidential choice. Then the President hands the caller a typewritten list of six names, and asks what he thinks about any one of them in particular or all of them.

The names on the list in alphabetical order are:

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert Humphrey

Attorney General Robert Kennedy

Senator Eugene McCarthy, Minn.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara

Peace Corps (and anti-poverty) Director Sargent Shriver

U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson

If the caller indicates a special preference, the President listens closely and then also warmly lauds him. But in doing so, he very carefully gives no clue as to what he himself thinks about the proposed selection's "availability."

For example, the President will say, "There is no question he is outstandingly able and qualified. Certainly, the convention couldn't go wrong in nominating him."

Throughout these soundings, the President has yet to give any hint as to whom he favors on this apparent preferential list of six.

Still Other Prosepects — Lately, there has been an important addition to the procedure in these White House talks.

After the visitor has expressed himself on the six names on the typewritten list, the President has said, "While you're at it, there are a few other first-class possibilities on whom I'd like to get your judgment."

With that, the President has mentioned four names—Senators Thomas Dodd, Conn.; Edmund Muskie, Me.; Abraham Ribicoff, Conn., and New Jersey's Governor Richard Hughes.

Dodd, one-time FBI man; Muskie, of Polish descent and former governor, and Hughes are Catholics. Ribicoff, Jewish, was HEW Secretary in the original cabinet of the late President Kennedy, whom he strongly supported for the 1960 nomination against Johnson.

To the visitors, Muskie's name is no surprise as he has been mentioned as a vice presidential prospect. But Dodd, Hughes and Ribicoff are causing considerable buzzing in inner Democratic circles.

The President's soundings on them are directly attributed to the make-up of the Republican ticket. Senator Goldwater is part Jewish; Representative Miller is Catholic.

Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley and Frank Smith, Philadelphia Democratic leader, have told the President they are flatly against Defense Secretary McNamara as the vice presidential choice. Shortly before Daley's visit to the White House, three important Cook County labor chiefs told him they were strenuously opposed to McNamara; that if he was on Johnson's ticket they would "sit out the election."

Daley conveyed that blunt word to the President.

In a Stew—Democratic National Chairman John Bailey is on a sizzling hot spot—and so far has found no help in getting off of it.

Leaders of the newly-formed so-called "Freedom Democratic Party" in Mississippi have asked Bailey to attend their state convention in Jackson early next month. They want him to give a talk and to advise them on the selection of a delegation to challenge the regular Democratic delegation to the national convention.

Bailey asked the advice of Clifton Carter, close political confident of the President, but to no avail. Carter referred Bailey to the White House, which has remained silent on the explosive matter.

But congressional leaders to whom Bailey has appealed have been unanimous in urging him to turn down the Mississippi insurgents. The lawmakers have counseled ignoring them.

Dear Abby

Face The Facts!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is planning her wedding. She has asked her 18-year-old cousin to be a bridesmaid. The problem is that this cousin has a 12-year-old sister who thinks she should be a bridesmaid, or have some special part in the wedding, so she can be in the wedding party, too. She has even begged to be a flower girl (she is five feet seven!) but my daughter doesn't want her. We aren't having any junior bridesmaids, so that's out. This little snip has always been jealous of her older sister and is extremely hard to handle. Her mother (my sister) has me on the telephone twenty time a day telling me that we MUST fit this child into the wedding party as she is becoming unmanageable. What do you suggest?

BRIDE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I suggest that you tell your sister that the bride decides who shall be in the wedding party. The 12-year-old girl needs to learn a very important lesson in life. "We can't always have what we want." Now would be as good a time as any to teach her.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a bit of information which doesn't amount to a "damn," but perhaps you can use it. Your correspondent who claimed that the expression, "Don't give a dam" was not improper because a "dam" was a small Indian coin, may have been right. But the origin of the "dam" used in that sense came from the old-time traveling "tinker," or fixit man. When mending pots and pans, he used a small ridge of clay around the edge of the hole of the vessel to prevent the solder from running off the area for which it was intended. The little clay ridge was called a "tinker's dam." After the hole had been mended it had no further use. Hence the phrase. Best regards.

J. F. WEADOCK

DEAR ABBY: I had company last Sunday. Mrs. A. stopped by with her four-year-old son. A few minutes later Mrs. B. came with her six-year-old daughter. The children played together while we ladies talked. Mrs. A. casually said, "I hope Jackie isn't coming down with measles. He was exposed them in our neighborhood and does look rather feverish." Mrs. B. shot out of her chair like an electric current went through it, and then shouted angrily at Mrs. A., "A fine time to tell me! My Janie just got over an ear infection and if she catches measles it could settle in her ear!" Then she grabbed her daughter by the arm and flew out the door, tears in her eyes. That evening Mrs. A.'s husband called and said I should ask Mrs. B. to phone his wife and apologize for hurting her feelings. Well, I called Mrs. B. and gave her the message, and she said Mrs. A. owed HER an apology for exposing her child to measles. Who do you think owes whom an apology?

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Both edgy mothers should apologize to each other for behaving even more childishly than their children.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOUNG AND IN TROUBLE: I cannot help you unless you tell me where to send the information. PLEASE confide in your parents at once. I promise you they will understand and help you in spite of what you have done.

New Office For Aging

By Mason Denison

(ED. NOTE: Yesterday's column reviewed the development of legislative program in the 1964 Special Session to establish geriatric centers for old people now in mental hospitals. Today we explain how this program will operate. — MD)

HARRISBURG — The State's new geriatric centers for aged persons 65 and older now in mental hospitals will be administered by the Office for the Aging in the Department of Public Welfare.

These elderly patients are now under the jurisduction of the Office of Mental Health, in the same department.

Many of the old people will remain at the same institutions where they are now living, but will be shifted to entirely different quarters, designed to give them a more congenial atmosphere in their declining years. Or they may be shifted to buildings now used for general hospital purposes.

They will no longer, Public Welfare officials said, be regarded as mental patients. They will no longer require regular visits from psychiatrists. Psychiatric personnel and the facilities for the mentally ill they had been occupying will be freed for the better care of other mental patients.

The transfer of these elderly patients to their new status is expected to be started this year, according to Elias S. Cohen, Commissioner for the Aging. As many as 2,000 aged persons now listed as mental patients are expected to be transferred to the status of medical patients as soon as geriatric centers can be established at mental hospitals and perhaps at some of the 10 State-owned general hospitals.

This new approach to care for the aged is now being mapped by the Public Welfare Department under the direction of Secretary Arlin M. Adams in accordance with the new laws enacted by the 1964 Special Session of the legislature which:

(1) Authorizes the department to establish geriatric centers for care of persons aged 65 and over who are discharged from state mental hospitals but continue to need medical care; (2) make medical assistance for the aged payments for their care, and (3) use state general hospitals in whole or part, as geriatric centers, as well as facilities located on the grounds of State mental institutions.

It is estimated that eventually the geriatric centers will accommodate 2,000 aged persons now in mental hospitals but no longer requiring that specialized care and treatment. This represents about one out of every five mental patients 65 or older. Patients will not be admitted to these homes or any other locations except State mental hospitals.

It was explained that the centers cannot take all of the aged patients now in mental hospitals because the majority of them are mentally ill and require specialized care and treatment.

There is no new construction involved in the program. The centers will be established in existing patient buildings at State mental hospitals and in State-owned general hospitals. At the mental institutions some of the buildings now housing geriatric patients will be utilized. It is expected that parts or wings of some of the general hospitals will be converted into centers.

Bitter Cocktail Battles

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — The nomination of senator Barry Goldwater threatens to put a crimp in Washington's colossal cocktailing industry. In fact, it may eventually put such a crimp that cocktail parties won't even serve a crimp cocktail.

People who go to cocktail parties to down a slug or three now fear they'll get slugged all right, but it won't be with liquor.

After the bar has been open 15 minutes all that's necessary to start a ruckus is mention the name of the Republican presidential candidate, favorably or unfavorably. I know an abecedarian who arrived early at a hightoned swilling the other evening and got slugged before the bar opened.

At another elegant tosspotting, a dowager Duchess-type sidled up to the bar with a little old lady who looked as if she should be wearing tennis shoes. The dowager suggested that Senator Goldwater had filled the Republican National championship with Dean Burch because it reminded him of John Birch. The little old lady without tennis shoes heaved a bourbon on the rocks into the dowager's bosom.

This is the bitterest that social Washington has ever gotten over politics. In the past almost anyone could argue our favorite subject with almost anyone else and have it lead to no more than fierce words. Now the mere mention of Goldwater can be virtually guaranteed to lead to fierce deeds.

It's hard to comprehend what's happened to our folks of the refined wassail set, they always used to take politics in their stride, even when they freeloaded to the point where they could no longer stride.

"Tolerant," that's what we were. I was going to say "moderate," but you don't say "moderate" in this town any longer, unless you crave a sudden belt in the ear.

I've given up my activities as a temperance worker because our slogan "moderation in all things" might be misconstrued as a dig at Barry Goldwater.

I would never dare be moderator of a panel for fear of being tagged as anti-Goldwater. I don't know how John Daly retains the courage to do it on "What's My Line." I'd hesitate to introduce a leading clergyman as "This is the moderator of our Church" for fear of getting him slugged.

The other night at a party an old friend I hadn't seen in months, because he's been doing a stretch for income tax evasion, asked me how I was feeling these days, without thinking, I replied; "moderately." He snarled that anybody who felt that way these days should be in jail.

Anything to do with "moderation," or "modern"' should be avoided at Washington cocktail parties if you don't want a thumped beezer. I discussed this with a young woman who got married late last fall and she said she was beginning to feel uneasy about wearing a modernity dress.

"Extremism" has become just as much a fighting word as "moderation." Ever since Senator Geldwater was dragged up on the platform at the Republican National Convention and reluctantly accepted the nomination our most cultured townspeople have been indulging in extremes. Goldwater's famous, "extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice," has aroused such extremism about the only place it's safe to repeat it is a vice den.

Benefits Workshop

You can receive two thrills by going to the Mills Bros. Circus at Stroud Twp., Saturday.

Number one, and the main reason you should purchase your ducats early, is that proceeds received from advance sale of tickets will go to the Burnley Workshop.

Secondly, there is always the thrill of seeing a circus, an American way of life that is good for the old was well as the young.

It isn't very often that you can get two pleasures for the price of one. And at that at a cut rate price that is cheaper than those who wait later and purchase on the day of the circus' appearance near the Giant Market parking lot in Strond.

Adults who buy tickets at the gate, so to speak, will have to pay 34 cents more. Children's prices, however, will remain the same on Saturday when two shows will be under the big top at 2 and 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the Pocono Mountains Junior Chamber of Commerce proceeds from the advance sale will go to a good cause — The Ralph N. Burnley Memorial Workshop in East Stroudsburg.

The workshop is a new innovation in the county. It provides work for the handicapped — a project long needed in Monroe.

Co-chairmen of the event, Pat Twardzik of Stroudsburg, and Jim Howley of Bushkill, have been working hard with their committees to add some dollars to their $50,000 pledge to the workshop.

It hasn't been easy. But we believe they have come up with a project that will please everyone — a circus for a worthy venture.

Too often we overlook efforts of individuals who are performing duties that fill a void in our complex economical, physical and mental setup.

The Jaycees deserve our financial backing in this particular movement. This isn't a case of "letting them do it." It is a project that warrants 100 per cent support of Pocono Mountains' general public.

In fact we've got to purchase the tickets now, if the workshop is to gain momentum it needs.

Everyone in the county should carry the workshop burden in one way or another. Saturday's circus is one small way to lift the financial load somewhat from the Jaycees, a group who flushed out the necessity of such a program for the handicapped of the area.

Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton

The five-cent United States stamp "Register and Vote" will have first day sale August 1 at Washington, D.C.

The commemorative issue for Shakespeare will be released at Stratford, Conn., August 14.

The Mayo Brothers commorative is scheduled for September 11 at Rochester, Minn.

The next United Nations issue will be the five and eleven cent set for the control of narcotics on September 21.

Canada's next issue will be the five-cent Quebec Conference scheduled for December 9.

The beginner in stamp collecting usually asks how to remove the stamps from paper or postcards. The easiest method is to soak the stamps, paper and all, in water, being careful that they are not left too long, as some of the inks will "run" and thus spoil the stamp.

Other suggestions are to add a little baking soda to the water or to mix two ounces of wallpaper remover to one quart of water and soak the stamps in this until they can be removed easily.

Never soak your stamps until they float on the water as mentioned before some of the inks will run with this long soaking. When tearing stamps from envelopes or wrappers be sure to leave at least one-quarter of an inch of paper around each stamp.

With postcards, if you want to save the card, just soak the corner with the stamp on and this means you have to hold the card with just that corner in the water until the stamp is easily removed.

When you take the stamps from the water lay them face down on either clean newspaper or blotter pad until dry. If you lay them down face up some of the stamps will stick to the paper as not all the gum comes off the stamps.

Club News

The Monroe Stamp Club's trading sessions are held Wednesday evenings at 8 p.m. The first regular meeting of the club will be September 16.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Oxygen Chambers Save Lives

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

ONE YEAR ago, readers of this column were introduced to a totally new concept in the treatment of some illnesses. You may recall the phrase "hyperbaric treatment" and the hope it predicted.

Those early expectations have not only been fulfilled, but have even been surpassed by the incredible results now being reported.

Hyperbaric or high oxygen pressure chambers are now being used for serious conditions such as severe carbon monoxide poisoning, gangrene of the leg, certain heart conditions and even as valuable supplements to X-ray treatment of cancers.

Dangerous Germ

Until now, doctors everywhere have been handicapped, unable to cope with the severe gangrene infections of wounds, especially since World War I. Caused by a dangerous germ, the clostridium welchii, these infections were often fatal.

Now these severe infections have been treated in hyperbaric oxygen chambers with remarkable success.

At the University of Amsterdam, in Holland, 40 such cases were treated by this new method. Within 24 hours, the severe toxic effects of the infections were quickly modified, saving lives and preserving limbs which might otherwise have been amputated.

Fully Equipped

Hyperbaric tanks, the size of an average operating room, are completely equipped with all medical and surgical facilities. These tanks resemble in design the Irong lung contraption formerly used for victims of polio.

Patients are kept in the tanks, and the high concentration of oxygen restores the vitality lost by inadequate circulation of blood to the arms and legs.

More Effective

In London, X-ray treatments on a large group of patients were found to be more effective when performed in high oxygen surroundings. There is mounting evidence that cancer cells are more easily destroyed when their oxygen content is high.

The value of immediate high oxygen treatment for acute attacks of coronary heart disease is being actively studied. Already there are indications of its effectiveness in the saving of lives threatened by severe heart attacks.

Explore Possibility

Scientists also intend to explore the possibility of using this technique to treat lung conditions like chronic bronchitis, emphysema and bronchiectasis.

The results of studies with hyperbaric medicine were accumulated and critically evaluated at a Symposium of the New York Academy of Sciences.

The early promise of high oxygen treatment is being sustained and holds vast possibilities of hope for mankind. Hyperbaric. Remember the name.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

Machiavellian

Niccolo Machiavelli was an Italian student of politics who lived during the time of the powerful and unscrupulous Borgia and De Medici families.

Machiavelli was well acquainted with the political machinations of these two families, for he held a government position until he was dismissed by the De Medicis.

He started writing and turned out "The Prince," a book that outlined treachery in statecraft—a quality for which the Borgias and De Medicis were famous.

His critics charged that Machiavelli espoused unscrupulous politics. Therefore, the word "Machiavellian" was used in referring to political teachery.

Big Boulder Expanding Ski Area Program

LAKE HARMONY — A major expansion program designed to provide "the finest and easiest skiing in Pennsylvania" was announced this week by Big Boulder Ski Area, near Split Rock Lodge on Lake Harmony.

The Big Boulder improvement program will be developed in a series of progressive steps. They are:

1. Two new ski slopes will be added to the area.
2. Two new lifts will be installed.
3. Snow - making facilities will be tripled in size.
4. Several new crossover trails will be added.
5. The present "Merry Widow" ski slope will be widened and resurfaced.
6. The snow maintenance department will add a new "snow cat" to its present fleet of snow vehicles, plus new snow rollers and a "Catamount" slope conditioner.
7. The parking area will be enlarged to more than twice its present size, so that 1,000 cars can be accommodated.
8. The present base lodge which houses a restaurant, ski rental shop and observation veranda will be enlarged and completely refurbished to take care of a larger volume of skiers.

This 8-step program is scheduled for completion before the start of the ski season in the Poconos early in December.

Work is already moving ahead. The two new slopes, located to the right of the Merry Widow slope, looking uphill, have already been cut, top soiled and are now being seeded.

A new T-Bar lift will be installed on one of the new slopes which will be classified beginner - intermediate skiing terrain. The slope is 1,400 feet long and 150 feet wide on the average.

The second slope will be for the beginner and will be served by an easy - to - ride J-Bar lift. This slope is 1,200 feet long and 150 feet average width. Both slopes are groomed to "dance floor" perfection with a very gentle, gradual pitch.

Several crossover trails will connect the new slopes with the present skiing terrain. The upper Merry Widow is also being widened and resurfaced, and ditches for water control are being installed.

More Snow Making

Big Boulder — which pioneered in snow - making back in the late 1940's and which had the first T-Bar lift south of the New England States — is tripling its snow making facilities. Both new slopes and the Merry Widow will be equipped with the most modern in snow making equipment.

The machinery on the main Big Boulder slope will also be enlarged to facilitate covering the entire slope in one operation.

The net result will be an increase in snow making capacity from 1,500 cubic feet per minute to nearly 4,500 cubic feet per minute.

Ultimately, it is expected that a completely new base lodge will be constructed to house a ski shop, rental shop, high speed cafeteria lounges, and cocktail lounge. However, this phase of the Big Boulder improvement program is still on the drawing boards and final plans are not fully developed.

Gosta Johnson, Swedish-born director who has been ski professional at Big Boulder since 1948, commented, "We are convinced that Big Boulder with these improvements will be the most complete ski area south of New England for the beginner and novice skier.

"It must be recognized that in addition to the advanced skier who finds a challenge at Big Boulder and other Poconos areas, there has come into being in the last few years a new 'crop' of skiers—families with children, husband and wife teams, even retired folks, as well as young people just getting started.

Their primary need is for a beginner and intermediate style of ski slope that is laid out and landscaped so that almost anyone, after only a few days of instruction in our American ski techniques, can enjoy the sport safely and comfortably.

"That is why we have stressed in this expansion program a long beginner's trail and two slopes, served by an easy-to-ride J-Bar lift and the T-Bar lift."

New Car Deliveries Start After Halt Of 31 Days

STROUDSBURG — New car deliveries are beginning again in the area following the end last week of a 31-day Teamsters strike which had halted delivery since June 22.

Some 115,000 autos were backlogged at East Coast assembly plants by the strike. College students were reportedly hired to drive cars through picket lines, but were unable to do so.

An official at Weichel Buick, 1009 Main St., said "Cars are on the way."

Mikels Motors of 1061 N. 9th St., a Cadillac agency, reported "They are on the way, but we haven't gotten any yet." Warren Mikels, the owner, said the strike "affected the business adversely."

The only local auto dealer who reported he was not affected was John Baylor, at Baylor Motors of 798 N. 9th St. The imported car dealer said "It hasn't bothered me, really, because we pick up our own. We don't get a full load at once."

Gilbert Rovito, owner of Rovito's Clothing on Main St., said he had ordered a car about 10 weeks ago from Tucker Chevrolet. It has not arrived yet. He said he expects it any day.

Down 50 Per Cent

H. G. Tucker, owner of the 912 Main St. Chevrolet agency, said the strike "just held up our deliveries. They're just coming in now. If you're on the tail end of the list, you may have to wait two weeks more." Deliveries were down 50 per cent for the month, Tucker reported.

The Teamsters walkout came after members of 18 locals rejected a national contract with new car haulers, and tied up car shipments to dealers from Maine to North Carolina. The new contract, details of which have not been disclosed, was ratified on the third vote by locals.

Castro Threatens Guantanamo Base

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP)—Fidel Castro warned Sunday night of a possible "serious incident" at the U. S. naval base at Guantanamo and shouted: "If they hit us hard we will be forced to give our men the order to hit back hardest."

A massed crowd of 150,000, celebrating the 11th anniversary of Castro's 26th of July movement, began a chant of "We will win! We will win!' and kept it up for several minutes.

Castro referred to his charge that U.S. Marines killed a Cuban sentry two weeks ago—a charge denied by the United States. "It will not be possible to avert a serious incident" if U.S. Marines at Guantanamo kill "another of our soldiers," he said.

Russian Ship Seen In Fla.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The radio operator aboard a cruise ship said Friday he saw a destroyer and two Navy planes escort a Russian cargo ship away from the Florida coast.

Art Owens, radio operator aboard the Orange Sun, headed for Bimini, said "almost 200 passengers" saw the Russian cargo vessel about six miles off Government Cut, entrance to Miami Harbor, when two U. S. Navy four-engine planes swooped low overhear and made "maybe five passes."

Waring To Crown Gap Queen

DELAWARE WATER GAP— Highlights of the borough of Delaware Water Gap's 75th anniversary celebration were announced yesterday.

Fred Waring will crown the queen of the celebration on Friday night. Mrs. John Storm will sing the national anthem to open the celebration.

Saturday, second day of the two - day event, will feature a parade at 8 p.m. Floats entering finals are: Deer Head Inn, Chenille Shop, Waring Worshop, Point of Gap, Blue Note Inn, Water Gap Cabins, Cherry Valley Inn, Glenwood Hotel, and Wild Animal Farm.

Also, Adiranks, Carney Rose Horses, Mountain House, Water Gap Country Club, Bridge View Inn, Kittatinny Beach, Osborne Motel, W.S.C. Society Band, Little League Baseball, Bear Stop, Hickory Valley Farm, Air Civil Defense, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, and the Fire Company.

Historical display items have been received from Joseph Hauser, Lester Smith, Percy Decker, Dr. David Shulmann, Loyton Osborne, and Joseph Wallace.

It was reported that girls who are selling votes for queen should turn in their money and tickets at the fire house Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Celebration committee will meet at the firehouse at the same time.

Taxpayers' Pool Feelings To Be Sought

MOUNTAINHOME — The Charles Geissinger Memorial Pool will take the subject of a community pool to the taxpayers of Barrett Twp. in an open meeting Thursday Aug. 20 in the Barrett Supervisors meeting room at Barrett Elementary Center at 8 p.m.

The group agreed this week to the necessity of hearing from interested parties in the township. Representatives of civic and service organizations had been requested to form an authority which will build and maintain a community swimming pool.

According to Clyde Gierse, moderator of the citizens meeting, a guest speaker will be present to answer questions on the recreational development of Barrett Twp.

Interested people in clubs and the community will be invited by letter. Each of the organizations will be contacted to discover the amount of interest and support available.

Participating organizations are: the Barrett Community Club, Pocono Mountain Rotary, and Barrett Junior Women's Club.

Sources of financing available for this project will be made public at the taxpayers meeting August.

$2,234 Aid For Hospital Processed

HARRISBURG — A total of $2,234.96 in state aid has been processed for the General Hospital of Monroe County, East Stroudsburg, according to the State Auditor General's Department yesterday.

The payment, which represents the final 25 per cent subsidy for the three - month period ending December 31, is designed to cover in part the cost of free patient care provided by the hospital during the quarter for those indigents unable to pay their own bills.

In April the department processed 75 per cent subsidy totaling $6,702.19 for the hospital.

The department last month processed the initial 25 per cent reimbursement of $4,468.13 covering the two-month period ended February 29.

According to the Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program, it takes 24 hours for an average person's body to get rid of the alcohol in a pint of liquor.

Mayors Proclaim Circus Day

STROUDSBURG — Mayors of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg yesterday issued a joint proclamation making Aug. 1 Jaycee Circus Day, and the week of July 27 Circus Week in the Poconos.

Joseph Small of Stroudsburg and Thomas Kistler of East Stroudsburg made the proclamation to recognize the Mills Bros. Circus to be held by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for the benefit of the Hurnley Memorial Workshop for the Handicapped.

The circus will be held Aug. 1 at the grounds adjacent to the Giant Market on Old Rt. 611 in Stroud Twp. Tickets may be purchased from any Jaycee, at local supermarkets, and during a July 28 porch light campaign put on by local Boy Scouts in conjunction with the Jaycees.

Jaycee President Edwin Krawitz joined the two mayors in suggesting that tickets be purchased before Circus Day. Not only will they be cheaper, Krawitz said, but a greater proportion of receipts will go to the local workshop.

25,000 Expected At Farm Show

BANGOR — Nearly 25,000 persons are expected to attend the four day Blue Valley Farm Show Aug. 19 through 22.

A teen-age dance contest, with trophies for the winners, is one of a number of new features planned for the 19th show. It is a project of the Bangor Exchange Club at the club's farm show grounds and auditorium located midway between Bangor and Pen Argyl.

Set for Friday, Aug. 21, the Youth Night program will also offer trophies for the valley's best boy-girl disc jockey team, it was announced by Lloyd Williams, farm show president.

Latest Dance Versions

Robert Barlett and Arch Doubleday, entertainment committee cochairmen, are compiling a complete list of the latest dance versions to be included in the competition. Music for the contest will be provided by Portland's Rusty Reimer and the Satellites. Audience reaction will decide the winners.

Registration arrangements for both dance and disc jockey team participants will be provided at teen gathering spots throughout the Slate Belt, the committee announced.

Williams urges the attendance of Exchange members at Tuesday and Thursday work night sessions devoted to preparing the grounds and buildings for the show.

Wayne GOPer Changes Tune On Goldwater

HONESDALE — Lester Burlein, Wayne County Republican chairman, has changed the opinion he held of Senator Goldwater before the GOP convention.

He arrived home from San Francisco saying that "I have every reason to believe this guy (Goldwater) is going to be sensational." He added that Goldwater can be elected if he campaigns for the presidency as well as he did for the nomination.

Last June 23, Burlein painted a different picture of Goldwater. At a Pocono Mountain Council of GOP Women meeting, he called the Goldwater faction "a group of arch conservatives, whose every philosophy is running counter-clockwise to the present day thinking of the people of this nation, whose policies date back to the Civil War. . ."

Burlein said on his return that while he is optimistic over Goldwater's chances in Pennsylvania, and in Wayne County, he feels the GOP nominee faces a "very nasty, sticky situation" in urban Lackawanna County.

Burlein also said that Scranton could have received some 500 to 800 votes more than Goldwater in Wayne, but he expects Goldwater to get a "normal Republican majority" there.

He added that he "will not tolerate" any Republican candidate who tries to set up an independent organization in the county. He will, however, strive to elect the entire ticket, whether they voice a campaign independently of Goldwater or no.

Burlein concluded, "If Goldwater should lose this year, Scranton will have the nomination in 1968."

Today's Events

Stroudsburg Planning and Zoning meets in the Pocono Mountain Chamber of Commerce office at 1004 Main St., Stroudsburg at 8 p.m.

Just Between Us — —

It's going to seem pretty quiet around here for the rest of the week. The bus-load of women golfers from York County went home last night after two days of golf and hobnobbing at Shawnee and Glen Brook — not to mention nights.

They are a lively crew and over the years have built up many warm friendships here. Their outing is the nearest thing to a teen-age slumber party, where nobody sleeps and nobody worries about it, that I know.

The illusion of having no responsibilities beyond the moment is a purely transitory thing but relaxing, nevertheless. Even if they buckle down harder than ever when they get home to catch up on those same responsibilities.

Another phenomenon of Summer is the family reunion, which at times reach amazing proportion — like maybe 200 or 300 descendants rallying around. It's rather a sobering thought and just as well, perhaps, that they come after the rush of June marriages.

Sobering because, obviously, the marriage just begins with the sound of Lohengrin and the chicken salad and wedding cake. And a hundred years from now several hundred descendants of this June's bridal couples, who otherwise would never have been born, may well be reuning.

Now there's responsibility! And speaking of responsibility, there's a false sense of leisure about these hot mid-Summer days for all of the people involved in club and community work.

While on the surface all is quiet, there is a stirring and an eddying underneath as programs are lined up, projects planned, and schedules set. What reminded me of that was the announcement of the first Football Mothers meeting of the new season. Football, like fur coats, seems to belong to another and much cooler world.

Card Club At Morgans

Saucy Chicken Makes A Big Hit At Barbecue

Mid-Summer Meals To Vary Those Outdoor Barbecues

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist

Stroudsburg — We're not only in the last days of July, we're at the end of National Hot Dog Month, and July is a good month to hail the All American favorite, for we consume two billion hot dogs in this month alone.

Yup, we're the hot dog eatin'-est country in the world; did you know that? Our annual consumption reaches 14.4 billion, and that, my friends, is a lot of hot dogs!

If you haven't eaten your share this month, try them as kabobs; they're easily threaded and quickly cooked, and yummy if you slide them into a bun after they're cooked. It's a perfect teenage treat, but I'll bet you'll like them, too.

Tangy Frankfurter Kabobs
1 pound frankfurters
2 small onions, cut in quarters
8 small sweet pickles
1/3 cup catchup
sired
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon brown sugar
8 six-inch metal skewers

Cut each frankfurter into 3 pieces. Thread frankfurter pieces, onion quarters and pickles alternately on skewers. Mix together catchup, hot sauce, vinegar and brown sugar. Brush kabobs with sauce. Place 3 inches from heat and broil 2 to 3 minutes on each side. Yields 8 to 10 kabobs.

I wouldn't be surprised if chicken runs a close second to hot dogs in annual consumption. It certainly is popular for back yard barbecuing for family or friends; it's economical, too.

Grill it to perfection and smother in a tangy sauce and serve with corn on the cob. Um, good. This sauce has a piquant flavor because of the orange and lemon, but it's zesty, too, from the blending of mustard, garlic and moslasses.

Saucy Chicken Barbecue
¼ cup butter or margarine
Juice of 1 large orange
Juice of 1 large lemon
¼ cup Green Label Molasses
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 mashed garlic clove

Combine ingredients and heat. Makes about 1 cup of sauce, enough for two fryers. Place chicken on grill and cook slowly, basting constantly with sauce. Cook chicken halves, cavity side down, about 40 minutes; turn and cook meat side down for 10 minutes. Prepare a double recipe of sauce, and serve with the chicken, for an extra treat.

For a picnic, you don't always want to cook out of doors. Sometimes it's easier to take a hot cooked casserole with you (wrap in foil and newspapers so that it retains heat). This recipe is for a casserole that will carry well; ground beef is browned and seasoned, and layered with circle of cooked zucchini squash so that this is really a feast-in-a-dish.

Beef-Zucchini Casserole
1½ pounds ground beef
6 medium zucchini squash
½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ cup cracker crumbs
1½ teaspoons salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1-8 teaspoon oregano
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese

Grease a 2 quart casserole. Wash zucchini squash and cut off ends. Cook whole zucchini in boilng, salted water about 8 minutes. Drain zucchini and cut into ½ inch slices. Cook ground beef and onion in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Stir in crumbs, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and oregano. Remove from heat. Melt butter or margarine in sauce pan. Stir in flour, salt, and pepper. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add cheese and stir until melted. Place half of zucchini slices in bottom of casserole. Add half of beef mixture, then half of cheese sauce. Repeat layers. Bake in a moderate oven, (350) 25 minutes. Yields 6 to 8 servings.

If you have never tried this green squash that resembles a cucumber, put it on your list of things-to-sample. It's a versatile vegetable, combining well with tomatoes, eggplant, and ground beef, and the perfect complement is the "pizza seasoning," oregano. The other night it was very hot and I wanted a quick supper so I fixed this, and it was good; I heartily recommend it. You know that it's not often one of my creative dishes can make the paper!

Quick Zucchini Casserole

Wash, but do not pare two medium zucchini squash. Cut off ends and cut into ¼ inch slices. Saute in butter, sprinkle with salt and oregano, and cook 5 to 7 minutes until zucchini becomes transparent and begins to brown. In a casserole put half of slices, cover with about ½ jar of spaghetti - meat sauce (or your own from the freezer); repeat layers and cover top with one package of shredded mozzarella cheese. Bake in a 350 oven for 20 to 30 minutes until bubbly and cheese is lightly browned.

Diane Keiper Honored At Lawn Party

Stroudsburg — Diane Keiper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Keiper, 51 Garden St., Stroudsburg, was the guest of honor at a surprise lawn party celebrating her 13th birthday recently.

Possinger Reunion At Appenzell

Appenzell — The descendents of Joseph and Elizabeth Possinger held their 10th annual reunion at the Appenzell Picnic Grove on Sunday with 115 present. A covered dish dinner and games were enjoyed.

William Dildine, Stroudsburg, was elected president for the coming year. Other officers elected were Ernest Butz, Reeders, vice president; John Burrus, East Stroudsburg, secretary-treasurer; and John Possinger Jr. and Larry Dildine, East Stroudsburg and Ken Custard, Stroudsburg, entertainment; Mrs. Ernest Possinger Jr., East Stroudsburg, gifts and prizes.

Prizes this year were awarded in the following categories: oldest person, George Possinger, East Stroudsburg RD 3, 80 years; youngest Todd Miller, Reeders, five months; oldest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. George Possinger, 55 years; youngest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, two years; largest family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Schneider, 6 children; and greatest distance traveled, Willard Possinger, 85 miles.

It was decidede that next year the reunion will be a joint one, uniting the families of Joseph and Elizabeth Possinger and of Stephen and Elizabeth Possinger. It will be held Sunday, July 31 at the Appenzell picnic grove.

Special Music At Portland Church Service

Portland — Special music marked the morning worship service of the Portland-Mount Bethel Community Presbyterian Church held in the Portland sanctuary. Rev. and Mrs. David Haas both presented solos. Mrs. Hass' vocal solo was accompanied by her husband on the violin and by Mrs. Walter Emery on the organ. He played a violin solo, "Rock of Ages" with his own variations, with Mrs. Haas at the piano.

Rev. Charles Cummings officiated at the baptism of Brian Darryl Llinares, three-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Llinares of Merrow, Conn. Mrs. Llinares is the former Harriett Wagner daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wagner of Portland.

During the month of August, worship services will be held in the Mount Bethel sanctuary. There will be no junior choir during the month.

In other announcements: the Fidelity Circle will hold a picnic supper on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Henriette Van Vorst, Swiftwater with Mrs. Irving Duerr in charge of transportation; and the young people of the church will have a swimming party at Lake Susquehanna on Friday night, meeting at the church at 6 p.m.

Blairstown Art Show

Stroudsburg — The Pocono Mountains Art Group members have been invited to exhibit in an art show at the historic Old Mill, in Blairstown, N.J., all day on Saturday.

Palmerton Aux.

Kresgeville — All women are invited to attend the Towamensing Aux. of the Palmerton Hospital to be held in the Trachsville Fire Hall on Tuesday, Aug. 4, at 7:30 p.m.

Bazaar At Arlington Chapel Sat.

Arlington Heights — Invitations in rhyme have gone out for the annual Church Bazaar at the Arlington Heights Chapel to be held Saturday, Aug. 1, all day.

The public is invited. For sale will be pictures, sewing, candles and plants as well as knick-knacks, baked goods, candy and lamps. Supper will be sold and there will be games for the children.

Church Fete Not Today But Next Week

Mountainhome — Art lovers will have to wait a week longer for the outdoor art show and bazaar at the Mountainhome Methodist Church. The annual fete will be held Wednesday, Aug. 5. Due to a misunderstanding, the event was announced in yesterday's Daily Record for this week.

In addition to the art exhibition featuring about 25 artists, associated with the Pocono Mountains Art Group, there will be a bazaar and bake sale in the basement of the church. Luncheon platters and light refreshments will be on sale in the church school hall.

Football Mothers Launch New Year Mon.

East Stroudsburg—The Football Mothers of East Stroudsburg High School, will meet Monday, Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. C. K. Eilenberger, Miniskink Hills.

This is the first meeting of the 1964 season, and the mothers of both present and future players are invited to attend to plan for the new year. Transportation may be arranged by calling Mrs. Raymond Uhl or Mrs. Jack Kist.

All tickets and money from previous projects should be turned in at this meeting.

Luncheon For Communicant

Mount Pocon — Diane McColligan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McColligan of Scranton, who received her first Holy Communion on Sunday morning at St. David's Catholic Church, Scranton, was the guest of honor at a dinner party on Sunday, given by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Sutton, Mount Pocono, at the Yankee Doodle Room, High Point Inn.

Calendar

Thursday, July 29
Monroe County Garden Club executive board at home of Mrs. J. W. Robinson, 515 North Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

Saturday, August 1
Bazaar at Arlington Heights Chapel, Stroudsburg, all day.

Monday, August 3
East Stroudsburg Football Mothers at home of Mrs. C. K. Eilenberger, Minisink Hills, 8 p.m.

Methodist Concert Date For Aug. 29

Mount Pocono — Preliminary plans for the seventh annual Summer Concert sponsored by the Mount Pocono Methodist Church have been launched. It will be held Aug. 29 at 8:30 p.m.

The concert will be held at the Pocono Mountain Joint High School instead of at the church as in former years.

Artists who will be presented are vocalist Jack Irwin, a member of the Cherry Lane Playhouse; violinist, Joseph Englehardt, Pocono Manor; and pianist Mitchell Andrews who has been guest artist at the concerts for the past six years.

The concert committee includes Rev. ## THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Funny thing . . . but maybe the heat was getting to me! I would have sworn, as I strolled through our second floor Monday morning, that I heard a chicken. Looking around, it seemed my suspicions must be rediculous . . . certainly there was nothing in sight except customers, looking over the racks of dresses and the table displays of blouses. Anyway, the sound died away and left only a big question mark in its place. What had it been?

A moment later, it began again—louder than before. And now other people were aware of it. Everyone stopped whatever she was doing, and looked around apprehensively as though she might step on a freshly laid egg any minute. The expression on the assembled faces was riotous. Everyone was baffled, curious, and haunted with the idea that maybe she too had gone slightly nutty.

Just as the suspense reached its peak, around the corner of a dress rack appeared a chubby little girl in a sunsuit, walking firmly and with a great sense of purpose. One had to smile at the intent, businesslike set of her small, round face. And then, everyone burst out laughing. In her hand was a cord by which she was pulling a rather large wooden chicken that flapped its wings furiously and clucked in noisy consternation.

I'm not sure whether our city shoppers were relieved or disappointed. They undoubtedly had felt, there for a minute, that they were really in a "country" store with hens nesting somewhere between the bikinis and the pedal pushers.

Everyone is raving about the high speed and efficiency of Corning's new Cerco Broiler-Grill, now being shown in our Housewares Department. The word is that it is smoke-free; that it cooks a steak or a half dozen hamburgers in a rapid six minutes, and that you can use it indoors or out. It does so many things, this one, handy, versatile appliance that uses inexpensive bottled fuel or natural gas. The price is 59.95, and a rotisserie attachment is also available.

Just about the time we were all excited about Sandee Wyckoff's wedding this coming Saturday, we discover there's to be another Wyckoff bride in August. Avis Gunn of our Lingerie Department is also to be married. With Sandee's wedding to be at First Presbyterian, across the street from the store, I'll wager there will be employes galore who will scheme to have their coffee break just about the time she'll be entering or leaving the church. I suppose everyone is romantic about marriage, and we wish sunshine and much happiness for both our Wyckoff "wedding belles."

A lesson in patience is certainly depicted by Spotty the Pony, who may be seen ever so frequently tied beneath a tree adjacent to our parking lot, waiting to take the children for a free ride. There he stands, quietly and a trifle forlornly, until the youngsters arrive and he can make their day a bit happier.

Wonder if you know that Jess Pierson, manager of our Sears Roebuck store, has been with the company 25 years? I'm told his employes feted him the other day and wished him ANOTHER 25 as their boss.

16 Hurlers Head Toward 20 Wins

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Sixteen major league pitchers, headed by Sandy Koufax and Juan Marichal, are heading toward the 20-victory mark this season—making the largest crop since 1951 in prospect.

Thirteen pitchers won 20 or more games in 1951. The record is 17 set in 1903 and equaled in 1920. Last year 10 made it, five in each league.

With the 1964 season heading toward the two-thirds mark, Marichal, the San Francisco right-hander, and southpaws Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Dick Ellsworth of the Chicago Cubs and Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees loom as the only repeaters.

Koufax, a 25-game winner last year, has won 15 games. Marichal, who also picked up 25 victories last season, has 14 and Ford and Ellsworth each has won 12. The Yankee star has been sidelined by a hip injury but is expected to start this weekend.

The others who colected 20 or more triumphs last season were Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, Jim Maloney of Cincinnati, Jim Bouton of the Yanks, Camilo Pascual of Minnesota, Steve Barber of Baltimore and Bill Monbouquette of Boston.

Outside Chance

Among these, only Maloney, Bouton and Pascual have an outside chance of repeating. Each has won 10 games. Spahn, who has had 13 20-victory seasons, and Monbouquette have won six games apiece while Barber has managed only five victories.

Larry Jackson of the Chicago Cubs and Juan Pizarro of the Chicago White Sox each has won 13 games. Other pitchers with 12 triumphs are Don Drysdale of the Dodgers, Bob Buhl of the Cubs, Bob Veale of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Dave Wickersham of the Detroit Tigers.

Ray Sadecki of St. Louis, Bob Bruce of Houston, Jim O'Toole of Cincinnati, Earl Wilson of Boston, Wally Bunker of Baltimore and Gary Peters of the White Sox are in the 11-victory group.

Clay Considers Training Abroad

LOUISVILLE (AP)—Brash young heavyweight champion Cassius Clay said Tuesday he might train in Egypt, Algeria or Ghana for his return match with Sonny Liston.

"I got offers from all those places to train there," said the 22-year-old Louisville fighter who captured the title with a technical knockout of Liston five months ago.

The site and date must be worked out.

"Our target date actually is Monday, Sept. 28," said Clay's manager, Bill Faversham.

"We hope to hold the bout before the World Series, which begins the first week in October."

Possible Sites

Jack Nilon, who represented Liston at the signing, said Louisville, Las Vegas and Baltimore are possible sites.

"I'd love to have the fight here. Las Vegas does not have enough seating and Baltimore would black out too many closed-circuit areas of high population density," said Nilon.

Liston signed Monday night in Philadelphia, a few hours after Clay signed in Louisville.

When the champ signed, he wrote "Muahmmad Ali, AKA (also known as) Cassius M. Clay Jr." Clay was given the name Muhammad Ali when he joined the Black Muslims.

IBW Slams Eagles, 13-11

STROUDSBURG — Grand slam home runs by Gary Tinney and Jeff Bush powered IBW to a 13-11 triumph over the Eagles yesterday in a Monroe County Babe Ruth League clash.

The winners tallied five runs in the bottom of the eighth to gain the nod.

Solemn Bears Attend Funeral

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

RENSSELAER, Ind., (AP)—A solemn group of 55 Chicago Bears and their coaches, many of them constantly brushing away tears, attended funeral services Tuesday for halfback Willie Galimore and end John Farrington.

A sorrowful gathering of 150 paid last respects to the two star players killed in an auto crash Sunday night on a country road near their training camp at St. Joseph's College.

Mrs. Willie Galimore came from the family home in Tallahassee, Fla. She was accompanied by her brother, Josephus Abrams, and his wife, of Chicago.

Mrs. Galimore, mother of three small children, sat as if stunned throughout the services, conducted by the Rev. W. E. Vannest of the Church of the Nazarene.

Breaks Down

Afterwards, she broke down in hysterical sobs, fainted and had to be carried into a waiting car.

The bodies of the two players were to be flown to their home cities from Chicago Tuesday afternoon.

Accompanying Farrington's body on the plane to Houston was teammate Charlie Bivins. Farrington's wife, married to the star end last March, was so shaken by the tragedy that she was unable to leave Houston.

Going with Mrs. Galimore and Willie's body was teammate J.C. Caroline. Burial will be in Tallahassee.

Simple Ceremonies

Funeral ceremonies were simple.

Requiem high mass was sung in St. Joseph's chapel Tuesday morning. Another was sung in New York City by Father Dudley, unofficial chaplain of the Bears, whom the Bears defeated last December for the National Football League championship.

George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears, called the team out for a full-uniform afternoon practice.

"All this has been a mighty blow," the saddened Halas said. "But we will try to get hustling again in practice."

LITTLE LEAGUE LAMENT

Is Little League baseball good or bad for youngsters?

This is a question which has been batted around (no pun intended) for many seasons. From psychologists and sociologists down to the layman the answers have been varied with still no definite answer.

But now comes along Joey Jay of the Cincinnati Reds—the first Little Leaguer to reach the majors—who criticizes Little League to the extent that he intends to disallow his son from participating in it.

Joey has now added his voice to many child phychologists who contend Little League activity creates pressure and tensions harmful to participating youngsters.

"I was amazed to find a couple of months ago," said Joey, "they have what they call a Little League farm group in which my 7-year-old son, Stephan, could play. He's been on a team and from what I have been able to observe, I'm going to discourage him from going on with it. That is far too young for organized training in something that is supposed to be fun.

"I am certainly not in sympathy with the Little League program the way it has developed," Joey added. "Perhaps it was not intended to be this way, but it is not serving the purpose it claims to be and I don't think it is helping baseball."

Jay's indictment of the program has since drawn the wrath of Little League Baseball, Inc., at Williamsport.

Robert H. Stirrat, Little League director of public relations, said: "By his ill-considered comments, Jay has not enhanced his own image as the first former Little Leaguer to go to the major leagues.

"The parental situation to which he referred," Stirrat added, "does not take place in Little League. It is ironic that more than 200 youngsters in his home city of Middletown, Conn., participate in a highly successful and scrupulously conducted Little League farm team program that bears his name."

Stirrat added:

"As a member of a major league team, Jay cannot justify his ignorance of the great number of former Little Leaguers now coming into organized baseball. This year there were Little League players on the roster of every major league club and currently more than 300 such young men are under contract to teams in organized baseball."

Joey had criticized adult involvement in the program. He exclaimed:

"I think even the most fair-minded parents put pressure on their boys. I've seen a few mothers scold a boy for striking out or making an error. But even those who don't interfere find it difficult to conceal their disappointment when their kid has a bad game."

He concluded: "I am convinced the Little League is for adults, and that makes it a waste of time."

It seems to me that Little League was certainly well-intended, and in most places today it is well conducted. There are, unfortunately, too many exceptions. And in these various areas, Little League in general has become a big target for critics.

Little League was intended for the youth of our country, and I feel it is a fine program. But adult supervision should be kept at a minimum. Little League should not be a showplace for frustrated adults. It should not be a cause for a scolding.

Little League should be for fun—and to a certain extent for training. It should be for kids only.

And the only reason I'm writing this is because adults are arguing about the program.

Let's leave the kids alone. Let them enjoy the program. Or forget about it.

Schedule No Help To Yanks

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles and the Chicago White Sox may have an ally in their efforts to topple the New York Yankees' American League dynasty this year.

The unwitting benefactor could be the schedule maker.

For years the Yankees have been beating down the contenders in clutch series in September. This year the Yankees may be playing the scoreboard.

Through a quirk in the schedule, the Yankees end their season's play against both Baltimore and Chicago in mid-August. Thus, the Orioles and White Sox will not have to face the Yankees in the traditional pressure month of the campaign.

Psychological Break

This should prove to be a psychological break for the two challenging teams, who have had little or no experieuce in late-season pennant drives.

The Yankees, in the past, have thrived on pennant pressure. The Orioles staged a genuine threat in 1960 but the Yankees squashed their hopes with a five-game sweep in September. The Detroit Tigers rose to challenge in 1961 but four straight losses to the Yankees in September ended their bid.

In 1962, Minnesota was the disillusioned challenger, bowing under the Yankee avalanche in September. Last year the White Sox brought their slim pennant hopes to New York for the last time and were defeated in the first three games of a four-game set.

Lost All 10

The White Sox have lost all 10 games they've played against the Yankees this year. Baltimore's record against New York is six victories and five defeats.

The 14-day span from Aug. 7 through Aug. 20 will be crucial with the Yankees scheduled to play 15 games, eight with Chicago and seven with Baltimore. They meet the Orioles in a four-game series in New York Aug 7-8-9 and in Baltimore in a three-game set Aug. 14-15-16.

The White Sox will be the Yankees' guests for four games Aug. 11-12-13 and their hosts for four Aug. 18-19-20.

Williams Undergoes Surgery For Back

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams underwent back surgery at New England Baptist Hospital Tuesday and doctors said the operation to relieve pressure on a spinal nerve went "very well."

Williams' condition was described as good.

Officials were unable to say how long the former Boston Red Sox star would be hospitalized, noting that the period varies in each case.

Dr. James L. Poppen, senior neurosurgeon at the hospital, said a ruptured spinal disc had spread and was pressing on a nerve root.

He said the fragments of the cartilage were removed and the pressure relieved. Poppen described the operation as "a partial hemi-laminectomy."

Williams, no stranger to back trouble, entered th hospital July 12 and was in traction for most of the past two weeks.

Hospital spokesmen said he apparently aggravated previous back troubles while playing golf.

Williams, now 46, is the last man to hit .400 in the majors, batting .406 in 1941.

Phils Blank Giants, 4-0

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Big Gus Triandos' first home run in three months pointed Philadelphia to a 4-0 victory over San Francisco Tuesday night, boosting the Phillies' National League lead to 1½ games.

Slim Jim Bunning had a no-hitter through 5 1-3 innings, then had to have relief help from Jack Baldschun when he weakened in the ninth.

Triandos, only recently recovered from a hairline fracture of the right finger, belted a three-run homer just inside the left field foul pole off lefty Billy O'Dell in the fourth inning. It was Triandos' second of the season.

Bunning Coasts

With Triandos supplying the right-hand power so markedly missing against southpaws in recent days — 10 of the last 12 Philadelphia defeats were by left-handers — Bunning coasted to his 10th win and his first since he beat the Giants at San Francisco July 4.

Bunning had the crowd of 29,380 in high excitement as he held the Giants hitless through the first 5 1-3 innings. But Hal Lanier slashed a single between third and short to shatter Bunning's dream of a third no hit game, a feat accomplished by only three pitchers in major league history.

The Phillies put the game away in the fourth inning of this first of a three-game series that has the league lead at stake.

E-burg LL Stars Meet Bethlehem

EAST STROUDSBURG — The power-hitting East Stroudsburg Little League All-Stars, Northern Division champions of District 20, travel to Freemansburg today to battle Northeast Bethlehem, Eastern Division titlists and defending champs of District 20.

The Bethlehem squad last year nipped the Stroudsburg LL Stars, 2-1, in a seven-inning stint.

East Stroudsburg, small in size but big in noise at the plate, have totaled 37 runs in three playoff games for an average of 12.3 runs per contest.

The Eastburgers have defeated Pocono Mountain, 10-2; Slate Belt of Roseta, 8-0, and Bangor, 19-5.

Pocono Catholic Names New A.D.

CRESCO — The Rev. Girard M. Mulherin, who was ordained May 23 and was recently appointed assistant pastor at Pocono Catholic Missions, has been named athletic director of the school.

Father Mulherin attended Lehigh University and St. Jerome's College in Kitchener, Ontario, Canada. He studied for the priesthood at St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, Md.

Retains Titles

PORTHCAWL, Wales (AP) — Brian Curvis of Wales, rated No. 2 world contender by Ring Magazine, retained his British and Commonwealth welterweight boxing titles Tuesday night by stopping Johnny Cooke of Liverpool in the fifth round of a scheduled 15-roundfight.

Cooke, ½ pound heavier than Curvis at 145¾, quit because of a badly cut left eye.

James Eyes Two Streaks

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—George (Lefty) James has never lost a Big 33 game—or beaten a Texas football team.

He lays both records on the line Saturday night when Pennsylvania battles Texas in the 1964 Big 33 high school all-star clash.

James has won three straight Big 33 classics since 1961, coaching the West to victory over the East two years and guiding the Blue over the Grey in 1963 in a game dedicated to the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg.

But as head coach at Cornell between 1947 and 1959, James dropped two decisions to Rice by scores of 28-7 and 41-20 in his only encounters with Texas teams.

"I didn't realize this was the case," James laughed when told of the dubious record agains the Lone Star State. "We'll have to do something about that."

Cy Barrett Says

Jobs For Handicapped

DEAR CY:

A pratical nurse we know suggested that my son, who has a congenital leg deformity, check in at JOB at New York City. As I understand it, this is a non-profit organization for disabled men and women. Can you tell us something about it and give us their address?

MRS. FACTOR

DEAR MRS. FACTOR:

J.O.B., Inc., is a non-profit employment agency, whose initials stand for "Just One Break." It was organized 14 years ago to place men and women, over 18 years of age, who have a permanent physical disability.

Applications are accepted only from those who are able to work a full 40-hour week and travel to their job without assistance. Arthur R. Danger of J.O.B. tells me this story regarding a taxi driver who was injured driving past a construction site: "A small piece of gravel was hurled through his open window and struck him in the left temple.

This resulted in a loss of vision in the left eye. The police department revoked his taxi license and he was no longer able to support his family.

When this man came to J.O.B. he had almost completely exhausted his savings and had been turned away from most of the places he had applied for employment.

The J.O.B. interviewer saw immediately that the taxi driver's many years of experience in traveling around New York City could be put to good use and he was referred for employment to the personnel manager of a local trucking company who had an opening for a router.

Needles to say this man was hired." J.O.B.'s address is 717 First Avenue, New York City. At present there are affiliate organizations in Boston, Wilmington, Hackensack, West Orange (New Jersey) and Elmhurst (New York).

CY

DEAR CY:

My husband is a minister and his hours would tire a clock. Besides working hard, he does it for little pay. I would try to earn a little extra money for our growing family, but I know the congregation would think it very "undignified." It is a pity how few understand (or try to understand) a clergyman's problems.

MINISTER'S WIFE

DEAR MINISTER'S WIFE:

The "New York Times" recently reported a comment by Britain's Rev. Edward Jeffrey which aptly states your husband's case: "People expect the clergy to have the grace of a swan, the friendliness of a sparrow, the strength of an eagle, and the night hours of an owl — and some people expect such a bird to live on the food of a canary."

We need perceptive churchgoers who aren't bird watchers.

CY

DEAR CY:

You told an amateur song writer, "A lyric without a melody is useless to the music world. Composer and lyric writer must collaborate to produce a saleable song." You also said song shark schemes are hokum. How do I, as an amateur song writer, get a melody for my lyrics?

GENIE P.

DEAR GENIE:

Syde Berman, publisher of "Songwriter's Review," is an expert in understanding sharp and flat schemes . . . and knowing what makes platter spin gold. For results, he tells me, "Collaborators should work together in person.

Therefore someone to collaborate with should be found locally. It can also be done through personal contacts or an ad in the newspaper."

For more information on losing your amateur status as a songwriter, I suggest you study the "Songwriter's Review."

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Wednesday, July 29

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — An average day if you so regard it, but if you strive a little harder rewards will compensate nicely. Give a new treatment to an old theme, try a new method to relieve monotony.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — How you make use of talents and time will count. Proficiency required to carry on mid-week affairs so you may wind up the week comfortably.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Keep everything ship-shape, for it can get out of hand with inattention. Open the door for healthy, meaningful discusion AND method. Tact, too.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Pitch into activities with verve, confidence, know-how. Experience should teach not discourage; your efforts will net top rewards.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Less said, more accomplished is day's top tip. Ample opportunity to advance — with vision and smart tactics. Exercise your wit shrewdly.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — If you are well-versed in your occupational requirements, you can join the achievers quickly. Where you do not have all the know-how needed, seek it pronto.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Your innate gift of successfully defending principle and people's rights can be day's mainstay. Be your canny, diplomatic self.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Pick up where you left off yesterday, not skipping "uninteresting" chores in favor of more attractive activities. You'll only have to do them later, anyway.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Some uneveness, contention with which to cope. Employ the techniques successfully used in prior efforts and situations. Here is where the traditional good judgment of the Sagittarian will be a big aid.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Mixed influences. Detect defeatism in others and counter with positive action, helpful words. A good period for updating methods and vitalizing your approach.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Much like Capricorn. A period in which to re-evaluate your course and conduct. Keep up to date, move forward, but always with true betterment in view.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — A transition period is indicated. Study it, evaluate it. THEN act on it. Don't let clatter and hubbub disturb you.

YOU'R BORN TODAY are clever in tactics, sometimes caustic in speech; are frequently able to push beyond opposition's scope and succeed where others falter. You are artistic and like luxuries; friendly, earnest, and will fight vigorously for the unfortunate. And the greater the odds against you, the more you enjoy the fray. Many statesmen, business executives, top salesmen and dramatic actors have been Leoites. Birthdate of: Booth Tarkington, novelist.

European Press Shows Fear Of Goldwater Candidacy

By Richard Spong
Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — The European press is reacting to the nomination of Barry Goldwater for President with a vehemency that can only be put down to fear.

As soon as his victory in the California primary made it clear that he could and quite probably would win the Republican nod, European editors began blasting Goldwater in language that would stronkly remind our press were commenting on a European political leader.

The French weekly Express carried a photograph on its cover with the caption: "Cet Homme Est Dangereux." The phrase in France is usually applied to armed criminals.

In its editorial, L'Express ranted: "He does not smell of brimstone. Instead he breathes out unintelligence, even stupidity, and a confused mind. He is the most dangerous American political product since McCarthy."

L'Express is admittedly leftist. But London's Daily Mail, Viscount Rothermere's solidly conservative journal, when it became apparent that Goldwater had the nomination, sounded much the same:

"As President, in his own words, he would be prepared for immediate war with North Viet Nam, a subsequent war with China, a side war with Cuba, and an ultimate war with Russia. Goldwater opposes foreign aid, the United Nations and the test ban."

"In short, he is for victory. He wants to impose those American solutions which the late President Kennedy was slowly educating Americans to understand could no longer be attempted in a world of nuclear stalemate.

Similar extreme representation of Goldwater's views is being printed in the press of our other North Atlantic allies.

A recent symposium collected by correspondents of the N.Y. Times furnished quotes in the same vein from papers in West Germany, Italy, and Belgium, as well as Britain and France.

And yet Goldwater is fully committed to NATO.

PAUL E. NAUMAN, President
T. B. COURTRIGHT, Secretary

NOTICE

Original sale postponed from Sat., July 11, 1964 until Sat., August 1, 1964.

Administratrix' Sale of Real Property Estate of Harry Quick, Deceased.

The undersigned will sell to the highest bidder or bidders for cash the following described real property of the deceased Harry Quick in the Village of Fairview Lake, Palmyra Township, Pike County, Pennsylvania, on Saturday, August 1, 1964.

PARCEL #1: A 20.8 acre parcel of land bordering on State Highway Route #390 approximately one half mile South of the Tafton, Pennsylvania Post Office and directly across from property now owned by Evelyn Segrist (formerly Totem Pole Inn) and having a frontage on State Highway Route #390 of approximately 697 feet. Situate on this Parcel is a two-story frame farmhouse, a barn and several outbuildings. Parcel 1 will be sold at the residence of the deceased at 10:00 A. M., E. D. S. T.

PARCEL #2: A piece of land consisting of 20.6 acres, more or less, and bounding on the "Mill Pond," but containing no access to the waters of the said "Mill Pond." This property was formerly the Mains farm. This property is located approximately 3358.1 feet East-Southeast from the Southeasterly corner of Parcel #1 described above. Parcel #2 and Parcel #3 will be considered one parcel and will be sold at 10:30 A. M., E. D. S. T., at the residence of Harry Quick.

Parcel #3: A strip of land 24.75 feet in width, extending from Parcel #1 to Parcel #2 noted above and being the only right of way to gain access and being a right of way to gain access to Parcel #2 above. The length of this strip of land is approximately 3358.1 feet.

At 11:00 A. M., E. D. S. T., all three parcels will be offered for sale in one package and if the total price bid for the three parcels exceeds the aggregate total of the individual bids for the separate parcels the latter will receive the property.

Ten per cent of bids to be paid at time of sale and balance by certified check upon delivery of deed for such title as was vested in decedent, said deed to be delivered within thirty (30) days of sale.

The right to accept or reject any or all bids is reserved.

SCHALLER—In sad and loving memory of a dear Mother and Mother-in-law, Theresa F. Schaller, who passed away July 29, 1953.
When we look upon your picture,
Sweet memories we recall;
Of a face so full of sunshine,
And a smile for one and all;
As we loved you, so we miss you.
In memory you are dear,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many silent tears.
Sadly missed by Daughter Evelyn, Son-in-law, Hadley is the new 1964 SAAB in the same boat as Volkswagen?

As for styling or body changes, yes. They're few and far between. And both cars make a fetish out of sound engineering. But SAAB mechanical changes tend to be dramatic, year to year. Take the new 1964 SAAB. It has a completely new brake system: dual master cylinders with independent hydraulic lines that connect the front wheel on one side with the rear wheel on the other side. If one fails, you still get effective braking on both sides. So do your wife and kids. We made a dashboard change, too. Not one instrument, but the whole works.

Otherwise, SAAB sticks to the solid things it's always had: front-wheel drive, fantastic 2-stroke engine, and room — comfortable room. So it's not really in the same boat as Volkswagen. Nor is the price. SAAB costs about $300 more. Value-wise, it's worth it.

Only $1895 (right off the boat).

SAAB STURDY • STYLISH • SWEDISH

Promised Land Visit Impresses Reporter

By Tom Wilson
Daily Record Reporter

PROMISED LAND STATE PARK — Pocono Mountain residents are missing a good bet if they are not taking advantage of the facilities offered at Promised Land State Park.

This forest recreational area is located in Greene Township, Pike County, 13 miles north of Canadensis on Rt. 390. The scenic drive alone makes it a worthwhile trip. Whether for a day, a weekend or a week.

Facilities at the park include picnic sites situated in natural wooded habitats with fireplaces, toilet facilities, garbage containers, a refreshment stand and tested wells to provide pure drinking water.

The 420-acre Promised Land Lake provides swimming, fishing and boating. A sand beach with lifeguard facilities and bathhouse is open to the public. Across from the beach is one of two boat concessions, (the other is at Pickerel Point) where both boat and bait can be had. Four locations are provided where the public may launch and moor their own boats.

The newly developed 200 acre Lower Lake also offers fishing and boating. A public boat mooring area, with parking lot, latrine, and launching ramp has been established.

Two tent and trailer camping areas provide campers an enjoyable stay at the park. Both areas are near swimming, boating, fishing, and hiking facilities. The Pines Tent and Trailer Area is situated in a picturesque section of White Pine. It is just beyond the picnic area.

The Pickerel Point Tent and Trailer Area is about two miles south of the picnic area, and is located on a point of land that extends out into the lake. Camping fees are nominal, and the maximum stay is two weeks.

Across from the picnic area is the Bear Wallow Cabin Colony, 12 rustic cabins that are available for renting. During the summer season the cabins are restricted to Pennsylvania residents and are for one week periods only. Reservations must be made in advance.

The cabins are also open in the spring and fall and are available during those periods to both residents and non-residents of Pennsylvania.

Fishing is popular at both lakes, and species of fish include Large and Small Mouth Bass, Pickerel, Walleyes, Muskellange, Perch, Sunfish and Catfish. Winter ice fishing has become popular in recent years.

20 Miles of Hiking Trails

There are approximately 20 miles of hiking trails in this area. Many natural scenic spots are accessible, such as the natural glacial lake known as Bruce Lake, which has been set aside as a Natural Area. Nearby is Egypt Meadow Lake and Balsam Swamp which afford a splendid chance for nature lovers to explore and study.

A developed nature trail of about one mile in length is found on Pyle Island in Promised Land Lake. Various tree, shrub and plant life are labeled for identification and study.

This history of the area is in direct contrast to the enjoyment it now offers visitors. It seems that a religious sect of Shakers were attracted to the area with the promise of many acres of land and the possibility of riches from the wilderness.

Upon arrival, the settlers soon saw that all they had was rocky land in the wilds with little chance of farming or even gardening. The settlers soon departed, but not before they had christened the area, with tongue in cheek, "The Promised Land."

Rotary Clubs Honor Dutch Student

MT. POCONO — Margaret Van Stapele, of Holland, who spent a year studying in Monroe County last school year, was feted to a farewell party recently by the Mt. Pocono and Pocono Mountains Rotary Clubs, the two groups that sponsored her visit.

Miss Van Stapele was presented with a wrist watch as a token of rememberance and she gave a short talk reviewing her experience in this country. She told Rotarians she was "thankfull and proud" that she was given the opportunity.

The Holland miss was taken to New York City to start her journey home by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Rossi. Rossi is immediate past president of the Mt. Pocono club.

The Mt. Pocono club received a banner at a recent picnic for the highest attendance award in District 741. The award was made by Edward J. Diefenbach of Montrose, past district governor.

Warren Handy, a Mt. Pocono businessman gave a talk at the picnic.

Aircraft Fatals

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Army aircraft—helicopters and planes—are hit by Communist fire at the rate of six aircraft for every 1,000 flying hours, a U.S. official disclosed. Most U.S. combat fatalities have been in aircraft.

CUROSITY—Tourists and the just plain curious still view daily the scene of the June 26 Marshalls Creek disaster on Rt. 209, near Echo Lake. The onlookers are inspecting what was once a house trailer owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Livingston, owners of the Pocono Reptile Farm. The early morning blast killed six, injured many and caused nearly a million dollars in property damage. The holocaust happened when a burning trailer carrying 15 tons of explosives exploded. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Early Morning Fire Extinguished

BUSHKILL — Twenty - five Bushkill Twp. Volunteer firemen yesterday extinguished a blaze at Friedman's Country Villa in Bushkill. The firemen, using four pieces of equipment, battled the blaze for three and a half hours.

The alarm was turned about 4:45 a. m. [illegible] story frame building apparently broke out in the overhead of the kitchen and spread through partitions in the kitchen to upstairs bedrooms, a fire company spokesman said. The blaze damaged the porch, kitchen and three bedrooms upstairs.
